Cattle and Sheep Suffer Beyond Average; Wool Prices at High Mark.

Phoenix, Ariz. April 19.—The rein tive droughty conditions of the spring are shown by a report of the department of agriculture. Cattle loanes have been seven percent, compared with 5.4 percent, the ten year average; sheep have lost 8.5, compared with 1,6. Cattle are rated at 92 percent, about average, and sheep at 30 per-cent, which is five percent below. Herzes and swine are average or

While thousands of cows have been While thousands of cows have been slaughtered during the winter in the Sait Elver Valley, owing to the high cost of feed, hundreds of cows of better quality have been shipped to Kansas and Nebraska points. The falling market for cows has been checked by the arrival of spring feed. The dairy industry in the valley is expected to be very materially affected by the plowing in of about 30,000 arres of poor old alfalfa, now planted to cotton.

Wool at 60 Cents.

About all the sheep brought southward for the winter have beed started for the northern ranges with shearing completed. Wood has brought the highest price ever known in the Southwest, reaching 60 cents per pound. There has been a material improvement in the quality of the fleers, which is now much less greany or burry than a few years ago. Heavy ahipments of mobalr are being made from Kirkland and other points in Yavapai county, at ground 52 cents. Goats also are going to the Kansas City market, where they are expected to bring shout $5. The Angora industry around Kirkland is becoming an important on, and the bends have been bred up util the quality of the mobair is high.

HOUSEWIVES OF EL PASO URGED TO BUY EL PASO MADE ARTICLES

The following letter has been issued by the Chamber of Commerce, signed by the president and by district food administrator and the chairman of the County Council of Defence, addressed to housewives of El Paso, following a letter Saturday to the retailers of the city.

OTIS C. COLES,

President.
J. W. KIRKPATRICK,
Pirst Vice President.
W. H. SHELTON,
Second Vice President.
H. M. ANDREAS,
Treasurer.

A. W. REEVES,

Secretary-Traffic Manager. H. M. BIRDSLEY, Assistant Secretary,

District Food Administrator.

-El Paso-Chamber of Commerce

> Office of THE SECRETARY

BOARD OF DIRECTORS MAURICE SCHWARTZ

El Paso, Texas, April 29, 1918:

To the Housewives of El Paso:

Largely as a patriotic move the Chamber of Commerce is urging all dealers in all commodities manufactured in this city and products grown in the Rio Grande Valley, to purchase and stimulate the sale of these before offering those shipped here from a distance.

By purchasing when possible those things manufactured at home you enable the manufacturer to operate with greater efficiency, relieve the transportation facilities which are so badly needed at this time for the moveme t of troops and war materials, and allow those commodities manufactured particularly in the north and east to be consumed in the centers of population or shipped to the war-ridden country when there is a demand.

When you purchase the products grown in this immediate section you encourage farmers to increase their acreage, insure them a better market at more stable prices, eliminate much waste and as a result co-operate in the commendable plan of feeding our own people.

All the government agencies whose business it is to assist in winning the war are urging a greater crop production and advising that various sections of the country arrange to feed its population as nearly as possible? There are various reasons for this, among them being the furnishing of employment to a greater number of people, the placing in cultivation of lands which otherwise might be idle, insuring the country against a shortage of food stuffs, releasing lands in certain sections of the country for the raising of necessary war-foods and making available for war uses large crops raised in the purely agricultural states.

Aside from doing your ''bit'' in helping to win the war by the purchasing of home products you will assist in the prosperity of the city in keering your money at home and giving employment to many who might otherwise be idle. Civic pride should cause you to do this regardless of the appeal to your patriotism.

The dealers who have been asked to encourage the sale of home products cannot do this successfully unless the housewives of the city demand them, so that the success of this move really depends on the patriotism and co-operative spirit of the women of El Paso. We rely on you in the fullest extent and results only can show whether or not we are justified in the confidence placed in you.

C. N. Basset,

District Food Administrator

O. C. Coles.

President Chamber of Commerce W. Cooley, Chairman County Council of Defence.
